They say that every dog has his day, and in my world, every girl has her own event night. After all, the girls get to select their dress, attend their very own cotillion and receive a night of surprises and gifts. My girls will be having their own Fairmont Cascades Ball this fall. This ball will mark the first time that one of my oldest will have her own event, so it's the perfect time to put the girls' brand on the map. With this in mind, I knew that the ball needed to be cohesive and representative of all the past balls my girls have been to. My main inspiration for this ball was to re-create that sense of magic, whimsy and sparkle that only comes from a girl and her friends having her own special event. In the Fairmont Ball tradition, the girls will enjoy a classy dinner and dancing while chatting with their friends and family. The evening will be a sophisticated and intimate affair. Let's be real: As soon as I heard the word "baby" come out of my mouth at my Bridal Salon's Family Campout last week, all I could think about was the baby shower I am planning for one of my clients. I knew then, and I know now, that a baby shower is one of the most important events of a woman's life. To celebrate the new arrival, my client and her husband are renting a penthouse apartment at the Fairmont Cascades and I will be designing their baby shower. When they arrived at the penthouse, they were speechless. Honestly, they were completely surprised. They were expecting some standard hotel room and what they found was an elegant, fully-stocked penthouse with a gorgeous view of the city. It was the most incredible place to have a baby shower! My client and her husband have booked one of the penthouse suites for their shower and my client is getting custom bedding for the baby. We've covered it all: hand-made "Hello Baby" cards.
