(NYSE: K), the leading North American producer of cereal and snacks, today announced that Denver Public School students will have access to locally grown seeds from Montana to improve the health and wellness of their school communities. Kids are facing food insecurity in school cafeterias across America. This issue impacts children as they see their friends and classmates go hungry. In 2014, USAID's Feed the Future Institute partnered with Kellogg to develop programs that use the company's line of Kellogg's® products to educate children and parents about the importance of food in the home and the community. One of these programs, a partnership with the Foundation for the City of Hope, implemented an amazing program called Seeds for Life. Seeds for Life teaches children about how their school food and the food they grow in their backyard can provide not only nutritious food, but serve as a means of nourishment for other people in their community. With a new donation from Kellogg, the program is expanding its reach in partnership with Denver Public Schools, allowing students to plant and grow 11,000 seeds from their

With his marriage on the rocks, a romantic gambler (Burt Lancaster) takes off on a double-crossing mission that would take a seasoned liar to pull off. With a bristling cast of Hollywood's top guns, this tense, noir-ish thriller is an exhilarating ride straight out of the classic film noir playbook. We are giddy with excitement to be sharing, with you, the latest trailer for Burt Lancaster's upcoming thriller, THE KILLING GROOVE. The film is currently in post-production and is scheduled to be released on September 28. Enjoy!"This 754eb5d184
