Other Questions: Camtasia is failing to save the settings of certain windows when I close and open it again. Why am I getting this error? A: I can help you with the User name, and my understanding is that it would be the license key in the third option. To fix this, please follow the steps given below: How to Fix - Camtasia Is Unable to Connect To License Server Steps: Close and open Camtasia. In Help, click About Camtasia. Go to Licenses page. When you see CAMTASIA 2020 License in the list, click on it. Enter the key in the field to the right of the button. Click Unlock. With regards, Q: SQL Server Express - User is not allowed to connect to this server I am currently using SQL Server Express 2005 to create, test, and run an ASP.Net website. However, when I try to log in using my users credentials I get the following error: Login failed for user 'paul'. Reason: The user is not allowed to logon as this account. (Microsoft SQL Server, Error: 905) And the following error on top of the aspx page: The ASP.NET setting applicationHost.config has been changed. To fix this, re-deploy the application. I have searched online and found that this may be caused by me not having a default administrative password on the server. I have no idea where to go from here though. I am using .NET 3.5 and SQL Server Express 2005 and am trying to run this on localhost. A: It appears that you have changed the default password for the server administrator role after installation. I'm not sure why you have to re-deploy the application, but you can simply change the default password using SQL Server Management Studio and the following commands: EXEC sp_configure 'show advanced options', 1; GO RECONFIGURE; GO EXEC sp_configure 'default_connection_password', 1; GO RECONFIGURE; GO EXEC sp_configure 'user_identity_connection', 1; GO RECONFIGURE; GO EXEC sp_configure 'user_name
