Gary Johns, of Amity, was fined $750 for a breach of the Local Government Elections Act, while Yedke Penhkov, of Oranienburk, was fined $750 and ordered to make a payment of $2550 under the Same-sex Marriage Act. Penhkov had argued it was not in his role as Chief Electoral Officer to declare his citizenship, while Johns argued that he did not believe being a Chinese citizen was a "substantial disadvantage" under the Electoral Act. Both men appealed the fines to the Local Government Appeal Court.Malcolm McLean: A final thought Malcolm McLean's recent standing as provincial secretary of the P.E.I. Progress Party almost guarantees that he will be elected the next chief justice. What a singular ending to a very interesting career. The retirement of Malcolm McLean, who is well-known and respected among his colleagues, will provide new challenges and opportunities for the Court, as well as new ways of thinking for all of us about the court system and its role. Let's not forget, after all, that the court system itself cannot be appreciated without first understanding how it works. Justice education in P.E.I. has suffered for years and the good work of Crown attorney's offices continues to be diluted by an over-reliance on court resource advice from the provincial government. Of course, we all know that every criminal case consumes resources. But the heavy-handed management of the criminal docket by the attorney general's department has resulted in thousands of hours wasted each year. And a sense of frustration exists among these Crown prosecutors in their desire to do more and be more. A significant threat to the court system exists if we, as a society, do not insist that cases must be handled in the Crown's Crown offices. This, of course, means that more work must be done by the public defenders and by defence counsels -- a noble effort, but not undertaken from an arrogant sense of entitlement. Change is inevitable and it will require a leader of McLean's intelligence, vision and stature to bring about the necessary reforms. Because McLean is known as a fair judge, his successor must be a representative of the Justice 570a42141b
